The International Journal of Collaborative Research on Internal Medicine & Public Health (IJCRIMPH) founded in March 2009 celebrates its first anniversary this year. The successful organization of 2 series of International Online Medical Conferences provided an impetus for launching the journal with the assistance of our good publisher: DRUNPP. The journal has to date published 13 issues comprising of a total of 20 articles.

Despite the short tenure of the journal, it has been well received by the academic community. We are pleased to say that our authors, peer-reviewers and editorial board members come from all across the world. Besides, the journal and its published papers have been successfully indexed in established databases including (but not limited to) EBSCO, EMBASE, ProQuest, DOAJ, GALE Cengage, and IndexCopernicus.

Thanks to the highly-qualified and dedicated reviewers, IJCRIMPH has maintained a competitive average review process time of less than 1.5 months. Moreover, papers once accepted are published almost without any delay, helping successful authors to share their academic work with their peers in no time.

IJCRIMPH ensures high quality of its standards by requiring the editorial board members and reviewers to comply with the Editorial Policy Statements that are approved by the Council of Science Editors (CSE). Moreover, the journal complies with the Uniform Requirements for Manuscripts Submitted to Biomedical Journals, issued by the International Committee for Medical Journal Editors.

The objectives of International Journal of Collaborative Research on Internal Medicine & Public Health (IJCRIMPH) are to promote discussions, studies, collaborative researches and activities on the current internal medicine and public health topics with an emphasis on epidemiological studies, prophylactic measures and secondary treatment methods. The journal publishes high quality editorials, research articles, reviews, book reviews, case reports, meeting reports, methodology articles, and short reports. We strongly urge authors to comply with journal guidelines.

The editors would like to invite all researchers and experts whose areas of interest and research expertise fall within the topicality or scope of IJCRIMPH, to consider our journal as an appropriate means to present their research works and share it with the world.

With that in mind, we anticipate that IJCRIMPH will continue on its trajectory of improvement and receive further attention from the medical community. In our part, we will ensure that the quality of the journal and its published papers are kept at a high level, so that IJCRIMPH can soon be indexed in premier databases including Scopus, PubMed, and ISI Thomson.

Once again we would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the authors, reviewers and members of the Editorial Board who have supported us during the last year and look forward to their continued involvement.
