Editorial Note

Now-a-days cancer becomes the life threatening diseases all over the world causes 10 Million people die from cancer annually. To overcome this problem many of the oncologist and academic researchers throughout the glob are working on the discovery of new therapeutic and diagnostics method. So here I am placed to introduce about the Journal of oncology and cancer case reports. The Journal of Oncology & Cancer Case Reports encourages authors to publish their novel work and shear across the world.

The Journal of oncology and cancer case reports inviting the oncologists, and eminent researchers, academic institutions, clinical practitioners, and students to contribute their novel work in the field including but not limited to diagnosis, staging and prognosis of all types of cancers, medical oncology , radiation oncology, surgical oncology, tumor biology, pediatric oncology, neurooncology, bone marrow transplantation, stem cell therapy, clinical trials and cancer drug development and get recognized globally.

As per the world status and observation, the cancer patients have more chances to get affected by Coronavirus because of less immunity, use of immuno suppression drugs, etc. Based on that the journal has coined the special issue i.e., “Sensitivity of Cancer Patients towards Corona Infection”. The special issue encourages the eminent researchers, oncologist to publish their valuable research work of diagnosis, treatment, and preventive measure which may helps to overcome the risk of pandemic towards cancer patients.

The Journal of oncology and cancer case reports has recently published the Volume 6 and issue 1. The journal aims to publish the researcher work within 30 days of initial submission and index them in Index Copernicus, Hamdard University, OCLC-WorldCat, Publons, etc.

I am happy to announce that the journal came up with the excellent idea of video article publishing from July 2020. One can submit their research work in the form of video about the size 25-30 MB. So the prospective academicians and scientists are encouraged to utilize this opportunity and publish their work with effective manner at relatively faster pace and at low expenditure.

The journal uses editorial tracking system is user friendly, self-explanatory and easy to navigate technology used for easy, efficient and quick submission, with fast review and publication process. The manuscripts can be uploaded at www.scholarscentral.org/submissions/oncology-cancer-case-reports.html or forwarded to the editorial office at oncology@emedicalsciences.com.

For more details visit Journal of oncology and cancer case reports. I take this opportunity to acknowledge the contribution of editor, reviewers, publisher for their constant support towards the journal. And also I expect the same support for our upcoming issues.
