Editorial Note

Now-a-days each and every person of the world is facing a common problem known as "COVID-19 pandemic". This pandemic is showing its impact in many of the aspects such as Health, economy of the country, etc. As per the WHO report the pandemic is caused by the novel coronavirus. The pandemic has adverse effect on weak immune persons or person with some medical conditions such as cancer, cardiac disease, kidney diseases, acute lung injury, etc. out of these many of them are mostly found in the cancer patient. As our journal belongs to core study in the field of cancer, the journal aims to focus on announcing Special issue on this pandemic.

With the same purpose here I am placed to announce the special issue on "Sensitivity of Cancer Patients towards Corona Infection". The journal aims to cover many of the points under this special such as Prevention, treatment, diagnostic methods to overcome the Covid spreading among the group of cancer patient. Also the journal encourages researchers, students, teachers, medical professions to submit their novel research work towards the special issue in the form of research, review, mini-review, image, video, original articles.

One can submit their research work through our user friendly editorial tracking system www.scholarscentral.org/submissions/oncology-cancer-case-reports.html or mail us at oncology@emedicalscience.com.

For more details one can directly mail us on the above mail id or can visit to Sensitivity of Cancer Patients towards Corona Infection.

Lastly I would like to express gratitude towards all editors, reviewers and authors for the contribution of their time and efforts towards our journal.
